Dear Members and Friends of the One Hundred,

I extend a warm welcome to our 16th Annual Dr. Roscoe C. Brown, Jr. Golf Classic, a momentous occasion for One Hundred Black Men, Inc. (OHBM) as we celebrate our 60th anniversary. This year, we are thrilled to announce that our golf classic will span four incredible days, each dedicated to honoring remarkable individuals and partners while fostering the growth of our youth through the sport of golf.

Day 1 will be a special tribute to LECET (Laborers-Employers Cooperation and Education Trust), an esteemed organization that has demonstrated unwavering commitment to supporting our mission. We extend our gratitude to LECET for their dedication to uplifting our community and for their invaluable partnership throughout the years.

On Day 2, we will shine a spotlight on one of our outstanding members, Derrick Barnes. Derrick’s contributions to OHBM have been extraordinary, and his unwavering commitment to our mission has had a profound impact on our organization and the communities we serve. We take this moment to honor and celebrate his remarkable achievements.

Day 3 will be dedicated to our Junior One Hundred Challenge, a remarkable opportunity for young participants in our youth program to learn about the business and sport of golf under the guidance of the PGA program, “Make Golf Your Thing.” We are grateful to the PGA of America for their continued support and for nurturing this valuable partnership that empowers our youth and introduces them to the world of golf.

Finally, on Day 4, we will hold our CEO Corporate Challenge in conjunction with the PGA of America. This exciting event brings together corporate leaders and professionals who share our commitment to making a difference. Through friendly competition and camaraderie, we aim to strengthen bonds and inspire collective action for positive change. On this day, we will create extraordinary golf foursomes by pairing corporate titans, OHBM members, and scholars from our youth programs, fostering a dynamic and inclusive environment for all.

As we reflect on our 60-year journey, we acknowledge the invaluable support and dedication of each member, partner, and friend of OHBM. Your selfless acts of service, mentorship, and scholarship distribution have touched countless lives and transformed communities. We are immensely proud of our young scholars and the indomitable spirit they embody. May they continue to shine brightly and make a lasting impact on the world, always cherishing their heritage as they embrace their future.
Whether you participate in the golf tournaments or attend our celebratory events, we hope that these four days will be filled with remarkable experiences and cherished memories. Your continued financial contributions enable OHBM to expand and enhance our programs, including the Junior One Hundred, and provide scholarships to those in need. Together, let us forge ahead, united in our mission to create a better world.

Finally, I extend my utmost appreciation to the exceptional leadership of this year’s Golf Classic, namely Co-chairs Derrick Barnes, Christopher Bennett, and Frederick Davis, Jr. Your meticulous planning and tireless efforts have elevated our golf outing to unprecedented levels, positioning it as one of the premier events in the state of New York. The dedication and expertise of your Committee are unparalleled, and I am truly grateful for your remarkable contributions.

With deepest appreciation,
Aldrin K. Enis

The Laborers-Employers Cooperation and Education Trust (LECET) brings the Laborers’ International Union of North America (LIUNA) and its signatory contractors together to address issues of importance to both. Laborers and their employers share a lot of common ground. Working as a team, they secure projects and jobs, increase union-sector market share, advertise their services, develop a workforce, and advance shared market-related interests.

GNY LECET is a one-stop shop for innovative marketing and advertising strategies, government agency relationships, market-related legislation and regulatory initiatives, community and business alliances, and a variety of project and job tracking strategies.

We know our contractors are the most competitive in the industry, completing projects ahead of schedule, under budget, and of the highest quality possible. Our workforce is also highly trained, ensuring safety and efficiency. Our mission is to make sure everyone else knows, too. Our goals are always set toward how best to increase union-sector market share. When labor and management work together, we all win.

Dean Angelakos, GNY LECET Executive Director is an experienced development leader with a demonstrated history of working in both the Governmental/Political and A/E/C Sectors. Extensive knowledge of Governmental Workings/Procurement/Public and Private Sector Engagement; Long Term Strategic Planning and Partnering. Over two decades of leadership roles held in Industry, Civic, Philanthropic, Educational and Political Organizations.
Dr. George Franklin Grant

The first African-American professor at Harvard. He was also a Boston dentist, and an inventor of a wooden golf tee. Golf tees were originally fashioned from nature, using either sod or sand. In 1899, Grant — a dentist of import and the first African-American faculty member at Harvard University — received a patent for "an improved golf tee" from the United States Patent Office.
Mentorship is an evidence-based practice that has been shown to improve behavior, and increase rates of promotion, graduation, college acceptance, and college completion. In the 1990s, several books and articles on the poor that highlighted the social, academic, employment and economic outlook for Black youth, especially boys, shocked the nation and greatly disturbed our members. One such article revealed that seventy-five percent of New York State inmates came from seven specific neighborhoods in New York City. This article, and an inspired return from the 1995 Million Man March, drove OHBM to begin a major undertaking to uplift the young people of New York City and improve long-term outcomes for boys and color. Our two main initiatives to accomplish this goal were the creation of the Eagle Academy and establishment of the Junior One Hundred Mentoring Program (JOH).

Junior One Hundred - OHBM is committed to creating a generation of powerful leaders. Our Junior One Hundred Mentoring Program begins in middle school and positively impacts student outcomes all the way through college graduation.

The Junior One Hundred is a Youth leadership and career exposure program open to students ages 12 to 24. The program focuses on Career Exploration, Character Development, Personal Growth, and Mentorship. The 2023 JOH career tracks include Business, Medicine, Law, and STEM (Science Technology Engineering and Math.)

Program Objectives:
1) expose young people to professional business careers.
2) provide a base knowledge of opportunities in careers for the future.
3) promote entrepreneurship to whet their appetites to someday start and/or own businesses and create generational wealth.
4) provide a familiarity with college and corporate environments.
5) increase levels of basic financial literacy and an understanding of wealth equity.

Other outcomes may include creating a start-up company and securing job or internship offers. The Junior One Hundred is also a bridge to our college scholarship and internship program.
One Hundred Black Men of NY would like to thank our sponsors for uniting with us to build brighter futures!
Program Components:

- Junior One Hundred Legacy – 300 high school junior and senior students, in six cohorts, meet weekly for 17 weeks on various campuses. Each JOH session consists of lessons from our core curriculum - highlighted by Fireside Chats given by OHBM members and experts from the career areas listed above. To enhance the experience of JOH scholars, trips, job shadowing, career days, and other activities are included.

- Impact Sessions – Partnering with the NYC Young Men’s Initiative (YMI), college sites, corporate sponsors and others, OHBM conducts forums and conferences for JOH scholars and other program participants from middle school through graduate school. The conferences feature members of OHBM, celebrities, youth leaders and NYC officials who address the young men on topics chosen by our 30 JOH Ambassadors and participant surveys. Up to 500 students will participate in at least one conference in 2023.

- Mentoring – Employing a youth initiated mentoring approach, OHBM matches members of OHBM and other caring adults from corporate sponsors and communities with JOH students and scholars from middle school to senior year in high school. Group mentoring sessions are 45 minutes long and feature a mentor to mentee ratio up to 1:10. Mentoring sessions are developmentally appropriate and topics include grooming, etiquette, time management, financial literacy, conflict resolution and mediation, career planning, college retention, preparation for manhood, civic engagement, and other subjects.

- College Mentoring – OHBM supports 20 college students via virtual meetings focused on college persistence and completion. Monthly sessions, conducted by OHBM members and corporate partners, focus on elements of the college experience including course selection; study routines; friends/networking; faculty relationships; campus life: dating, fraternities/sororities; finding and securing internships; and career development. There is also room for scholars to share emerging issues and have one-on-one sessions.

Eagle Academy - New York City's first all-boys public school in over thirty years, was founded by OHBM in 2004 and continues to defy an entrenched American mindset by insisting that young black and brown men are not one of America’s problems but, instead, one of its greatest assets.
Mastery & Excellence

I salute my One Hundred Black Men of New York brothers for community leadership, fortitude, and strength in the face of an unprecedented pandemic. Together we are formidable; together we win!

Over the last few years, the membership rose to the challenge of 100 members contributing $100 for the One Hundred. This year, we respond by directing our efforts directly to the Junior One Hundred. Each time a member steps up, they get a nameplate in the journal in addition to their other sponsorship selections. It’s no surprise -- You understood the assignment. We thank you here!

When Dewey Brown was a child, his family moved from North Carolina to Morris County, New Jersey. Brown’s introduction to golf began while working at Madison Golf Club as a caddie. He ultimately became the PGA of America’s first African-American member. Brown’s tenure as a PGA professional was cut short when the association implemented a “Caucasian-only clause.” He subsequently purchased a nine-hole golf course and small hotel in the Adirondacks – Cedar River Golf Course. Brown - a true trailblazer - became an early member and enjoyed a great working relationship with the Golf Course Superintendents Association of America.

Jackie Robinson (1919 – 1972) was a founding member of One Hundred Black Men of New York in 1963.

As a golfer, Robinson – who also played tennis after his retirement from baseball – was one of America’s greatest all-around athletes. Jackie attracted attention whenever he did play golf; shooting in the high 70s and low 80s, according to High Ridge Country Club member Carl Rosen. "Jackie could crunch the ball off the tee and was a very good putter, with a good short game," Rosen said.

OHBM pays tribute to Jackie Robinson for his greatness as an athlete, civil rights leader, and American.

Robinson was posthumously awarded the Congressional Gold Medal and Presidential Medal of Freedom (2005) in recognition of his achievements on and off the field.
